

The Daily Courant.

Monday, December 31. 1705.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated January 5.

Madrid, December 18.

Yesterday the King receiv'd an Express from the Viceroy of Valencia, with Advice, that the Rebels of Denia having receiv'd a Reinforcement of Men from Barcelona, came before the Town of Gandia, and easily took it, (the Regiment of Horse of Nabor which consisting mostly of Catalonians declaring for them,) seizing Collonel Zuniga and other Officers; but the Duke of Gandia made his Escape. There is a Report the Rebels have also made themselves Masters of the Town of Oliva, but it seems to want Confirmation.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated January 5.

Barcelona, November 3. Seven Battallions are order'd to march from hence towards Tortosa. The Enemy have caus'd 4 Regiments of Horse to advance to the Frontier of the Kingdom of Valencia. These Regiments are very weak, except that of Catalonians commanded by Collonel Nabor, who has 3 Brothers in the Service of King Charles, that have excited the open Country of Arragon and some Places in the Kingdom of Valencia to rise. 'Tis hop'd their Brother will come over to King Charles with his Regiment. Preparations are made here for his Majesty's publick Entry into this City: And a great deal of Money being laid out for rendering that Entry magnificent, his Majesty desir'd so useless a Charge might be spar'd; but the People will not bear of good Husbandry on this Occasion, declaring they were forc'd to be at Expence against their Wills for the Duke of Anjou's Entry, and now they have a King their Hearts desir'd and whom God has sent them as it were by Miracle, they will be profuse. A Regiment of Horse and 1 of Dragoons are form'd for King Charles: And others are levying.

From the Paris Gazette, dated January 2.

Venice, December 12. General Toralba has caus'd Count Galeazzo Boselli to be seiz'd near Lodi by Order of the Prince of Vandemont, and to be carried to Milan where he is put into the Dungeon of the Castle. The 7th of this Month Prince Ercolani the Emperor's Ambassador arriv'd incognito in this City; he did not notify his Arrival to the Senate till the 9th. Signior Collatio Archbishop of Corfu, died here the 8th. Letters from Constantinople of the 4th of last Month, inform us the Plague rag'd so violently there, that several Streets were intirely deserted; the surviving Inhabitants being retir'd into the Country. An Ambassador from the King of Persia, attended by a Train of 700 Horse, was expected there. The Grand Signior had sent Officers to meet him according to Custom.

From the Paris Gazette, dated January 2.

From the Camp near Lonato, Dec. 16. A Courier has brought Prince Eugene the Emperor's Order for the Distribution of Winter Quarters. That Prince is still encamp'd in the same Places, notwithstanding, as Deserters report, his Troops suffer very much:

And therefore the Duke of Vendome has thought fit not to separate his Army yet. Forrage beginning to be scarce, the Duke of Vendome has caus'd 200 Waggon's to be brought from the Modeneze, to fetch Forrage from Goito and Rivalta, whither a great Quantity is brought from the Magazines of Mantua. Prince Eugene having Intelligence, that the Count de Medavy pass'd the Mela the 14th and was advanc'd to the Gates of Brescia, sent a Detachment to reinforce the Body that General Visconti commands at Rezato, on the Canal that goes from the Chiefe to Brescia.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated January 5.

From the Imperial Camp near Lonato, Dec. 18. The 12th we had Intelligence, that the Generals Toralba and Medavy, who are advanc'd to Brescia, began to throw up a Line to secure themselves in that Post; as also that the French were arming some Barks to cruise on the Lake of Garda. The 13th and 14th nothing pass'd worth Notice; it rain'd hard both Days. The 15th we were inform'd by Deserters that some Boats were brought from Mantua on Waggon's, to be employ'd on the Lake of Garda: And from Salo we heard, that almost all our Baggage was sent over that Lake. The 16th General Visconti being indispos'd was brought hither from Rezato, and Major General Baron Weckel was order'd to march hence with some Troops and take upon him the Command at Rezato. Yesterday he march'd thither accordingly. The whole Day we and the Enemy fir'd hard at each other with Musquets, by which 3 of our Men were wounded; but we know not the Enemy's Loss. To Day we had Intelligence, that some of the Enemy's Troops have taken Post near Valefio on the Mincio; probably with Design to get Forrage, of which they are in great Want, out of the Veroneze.

From the Paris Letter, dated January 1.

Paris, January 1. A Courier from the Duke of Vendome, who left Defenzano the 21st of last Month, has brought an Account, That by some Letters of Prince Eugene, which were intercepted, it appear'd, that his Troops are in extreme Want of Provisions, and that he thinks of retiring. That however he will do all he can to preserve the Post of Lonato, though he is not absolutely Master of it, being possess'd only of the Ditches and Suburbs; and also to keep Calcinato, Navi, Gavardo, and Salo, into which he will distribute his Foot: But that the Horse for want of Forrage must be forc'd to march into Tirol and the Veroneze. The Duke of Vendome being thus inform'd of Prince Eugene's Designs, and besides seeing the great Rains continued, has at length resolv'd to put his Troops into the Winter-Quarters he has chosen: And this he was to begin to do the 26th or 27th. His Foot will be dispos'd from Carpenedole to Defenzano on the Lake of Garda, and to Valefio on the Mincio. His Horse will be sent to get Forrage in the Modeneze; the Forrage that was on the Chiefe and in the Mantuan being all consum'd. The Letters from the Camp before Nice are of the 21st, and give us hopes that Castle could not hold out above 8 Days longer, Deserters having reported that hat the Marquis de Carail the Governour had begun to sell his own Provision of Wine: They add that he keeps within his Vaults for Safety, but that the Marquis de Senantes his Son appears every where, and exposes himself in the most dangerous Places, to excite the Emulation of the Officers and Soldiers.
